Debating Society Boys Get Together for Banquet and Listen to Talks.

The Sam Houston Debating society of the El Paso high school enjoyed its fifth annual banquet Friday night, in the private dining room of Hotel Paso del Norte. The tables were arranged in a restangle and were decorated with a runner of asparagus ferne and sprays of California pepper trees, red berry laden, with red and white carnations scattered over these. The runner extended the entire length of the table. About the room were vases filled with red and white carnations and ferne. The obnquet was a very joily affair. Eugene Thurston, the retiring president of the society, was the fuestimister. He was introduced by Robert Jolly and gave a brief summary of the history of the Sam Houston society's annual banquets and introduced the incoming president. Harry A. Welseh.

The new president asked the copperation of all the society members in making the coming year a bigger and better one for the society. He said that his platform would be more dehates, with a larger number of society members vitally interested in the work for which the society stood.

Principal A. H. Hughey spoke in high praise of the society and the traditions back of it. He said that the Sam Houston Debating society had made as fine a record of achievement as any high school debating society in the state, and also commended the members of the society for the high standard of personal conduct maintained in their school life.

Eugene Harris, an alumni of the high school and of the Sam Houston Debating society spoke of the value to the individual in literary society membership, both in high school and in university life, compared with fraterity membership. He spoke of the democracy of the literary society compared with the fraternity and of the bronder opportunities for development offered by work in the literary society.

Miss Buth M. August talked on the importance of every member in an organization bearing an equal part of the work of the organization—and the personal development gained from organization work.

personal development gained from organization work.

Superintendent R. J. Tighe praised the work of the literary society as a bart of the high school work and said that all the students of the public speaking department should belong to literary societies also. Mr. Tighe suggested that stronger individual development could be gained by having more literary societies with smaller memberships in each and more competition among the societies.

Toustmaster Thurston then called upon the incoming secretary, William Bias, who spoke in appreciation of the honor given him in the office to which he had been elected and of his hope to make this year a successful one for the society.

Robert Welff, the incoming recovery

Chicago, Ili. Dec 18.—The first step in a campaign to clean a the Chicago police department, which he declared was honeycombed with graft and protection for criminals, was taken today by mayor Thompson.

The mayor said both he and chief of police were convinced that there was collusion between the police department and the crooks of Chicago and that criminals were being protected.

and that criminals were being pro-tected.

"As to plots within the department to murder its own members," continued the mayor, "I can only say that murders of policemen have been numerous of late."
